Sues Dixon Elks for recovery of property

OREGON—The sole surviving heir to property willed to the Dixon Elks Lodge has filed suit in Ogle County Circuit Court seeking recovery of the land. Joyce L. Page charges the Dixon Lodge with failing to live up to terms of the will of Thomas S. Page, a Grand Detour resident who left the property to the lodge in his 1930 will.

The land is located off Lowell Park Road, north of Forest Park subdivision and takes in property in Ogle and Lee Counties.

The property was turned over to the Elks Nov. 27, 1968, following the death of Mary Ellen Page, in compliance with the will.

The suit alleges the organization has not used the land for its stated purpose: a public park.

The suit further alleges the land has been used for the sole benefit of the lodge and that proceeds derived from a lease on the property have not gone for maintenance of the park.

Page seeks a court order to revert the property to her because of the failure on the part of the lodge to conform with terms of the will.

No date has been set for a hearing.

Subcontractor files suit in tollway job

A subcontractor who installed guard railing and fence along the East-West Tollway has filed suit in Lee County Circuit Court, charging breach of contract for non-payment of $254,377 in completed work along the state road.

S. K. Olivar Co., Hammond, Ind., and the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority brought suit against Denton and Holloway Construction firms and Aetna Casualty and Surety Co., bonding agency for the tollway extension project.

The Olivar firm contracted with Denton and Holloway, the general contractors, to provide fence and guard railing on the 69-mile extension, and according to the suit, the work was completed May 25, 1975.

The suit claims the work was accepted by the Toll Highway Authority and Aetna furnished a contractors bond for payment of labor, however the general contractors did not pay either of two claims submitted by the Olivar firm.

The firm installed approximately 325,000 feet of fencing and 49,000 of guard rail over a four-year period.

May cut mail deliveries to 3 days a week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service says it is considering cutting mail delivery to three days a week.

J. T. Ellington, a senior assistant postmaster general, said in an interview Thursday that three-day-per-week delivery is "one of the options" the financially troubled agency is considering in its campaign to cut costs.

Although more drastic cutbacks have been discussed, Ellington said, "Our most immediate option is reduction by one day in delivery service." Postal officials had said previously they are considering eliminating delivery on Saturday or one other day of the week.

Postal service officials have said the savings from elimination of delivery on Saturday would be about $350 million per year and savings would be somewhat higher if delivery is dropped on a business day.

Ellington said the possibility of three-day-per-week delivery was discussed at a recent meeting of the agency's board of governors.

"We'll have to see how things go in the financial area and then decide what we have to do," he said.

Other service cutbacks under consideration include ending special delivery, postal officials say.

"We are not excluding anything from consideration," Ellington said.

The Postal Service would have to seek the approval of the Postal Rate Commission, an independent agency, before eliminating any service.

The postal deficit is estimated to reach a record $1.5 billion for the fiscal year ending June 30.

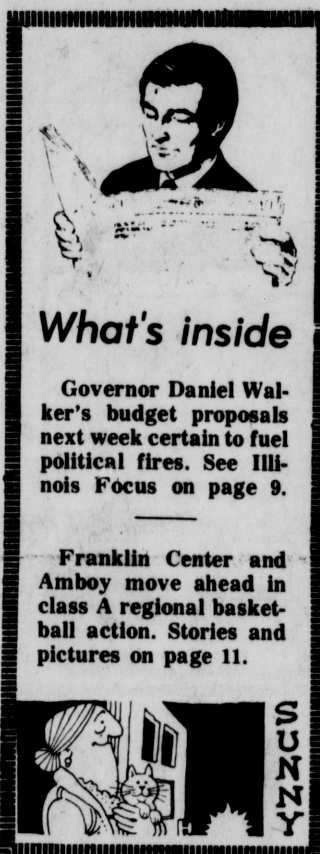

One problem the Postal Service faces is that "everywhere we turn on cutting costs, somebody opposes it," Ellington said.

In one such action Thursday, a federal judge blocked the Postal Service from closing rural post offices to save money.

U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith issued a temporary restraining order against the economy plan and scheduled a hearing for March 3 on whether to make his order permanent.

The Postal Service said the order would result in a loss of about $5,500 a day. The agency has closed about 180 post offices since July 1 and is scrutinizing 600 others.

Forty members of Congress had filed the suit hours earlier, contending the closings constituted "a massive assault on the country's small communities."

Economic indicators climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said today that its index of leading economic indicators marked its biggest increase in six months during January, signaling a more robust economic growth ahead.

The Commerce Department said its composite index comprised of a dozen individual economic statistics selected for their capacity to foresee economic developments rose by 2.2 per cent in January.

That was the biggest increase since a 2.5 per cent jump in July and ended five months of virtual stagnation in the index. The January increase alone surpassed the total 2.1 per cent rise for those five months.

At the same time, Commerce revised to nine-tenths of a per cent the index increase for December. The increase originally had been reported as four-tenths of a per cent.

growth at the onset of the recovery last spring, growth slowed significantly over the fall and early winter.

But now consumer spending is continuing to be strong, and there are early signs that business is now prepared to begin spending more on increasing its capacity.

Only 11 of the 12 individual indicators in the composite index were available for the January report, but only two of them — holdings of cash and near-cash by business and consumers and the money supply — showed declines.

Signaling economic growth along with higher stock prices and bigger orders for business spending were an increase in the average work week, a reduction in the layoff rate for manufacturing, higher prices to producers of key wholesale goods, formation of more new businesses, increased orders for producers of consumer goods, a greater number of building permits issued, and slower deliveries by suppliers, which is taken as a sign of increased demand.

Ford accused Congress of lag on energy bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is again accusing Congress of delaying action on energy bills, but congressional leaders insist they are not dragging their feet.

In a special energy message Thursday, Ford complained that the failure of Congress to act on a series of administration-sponsored bills is hindering the nation's drive to become energy independent.

Although many energy issues were resolved in a measure passed in December, Ford said the nation cannot begin to solve its remaining energy problems until he gets the additional authority he requested.

But Rep. John G. Dingell, D-Mich., said, "Remember, the President spent all last year making charges that Congress was not acting on energy measures, but we did act."

Dingell, chairman of the House energy and power subcommittee, added: "And our program — which he eventually signed — was far more comprehensive than his original approach."

The measure passed in December was the nation's first major energy legislation. It included gradual reduction of oil price controls.

Dingell added that there is a variety of energy-related bills before his committee "and we're acting on them as fast as possible. We've been working hard on the entire subject of energy."

In urging action on pending bills, Ford submitted two new proposals:

—Legislation setting deadlines for federal processing of pipeline projects to bring natural gas from northern Alaska and letting the President select a pipeline route subject to congressional approval.

—Allowing up to one trillion cubic feet of liquefied natural gas to be imported annually, which does not require congressional action.

Senate backers of a bill to speed completion of a gas pipeline said their approach, mandating approval of a pipeline route within 60 days after passage, would get the job done faster than Ford's proposal.

That bill is now before a Senate committee. Its prime sponsor, Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., said through a spokesman that he would reserve further comment until he saw Ford's specific proposal.

Ford especially urged Congress to pass a bill to end federal price regulation of natural gas. The Senate voted last year to gradually remove price controls on interstate sales of natural gas. But the House earlier this month passed a conflicting version continuing controls and, in some instances, actually broadening them.

Dingell said congressional advocates of phasing out controls have been meeting with Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb in hopes of working out some form of compromise legislation.

Other administration bills Ford urged Congress to enact included:

—Authority for temporary sale of natural gas at unregulated prices.

—Creation of an energy independence authority to underwrite up to $100 billion in private energy projects.

—Financial guarantees of up to $6 billion for development of private synthetic fuel production.

—Increased investment tax credits for building new power plants.

—Authorization of commercial oil production from naval reserves.

—Easing of clean air standards to allow increased burning of coal.

Say DeGrazia used state-owned planes

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker's top political strategist, Victor de Grazia, currently on leave from his duties as deputy to the governor, has used state airplanes 13 times for trips between Chicago and Springfield since he left the state payroll, the Rockford Morning-Star and the Quad-City Times reported.

The newspapers also said an apparent attempt had been made to obliterate de Grazia's name from five official documents submitted to the state Department of Aeronautics for billing purposes.

The trips were taken in the first 10 weeks after de Grazia left the payroll Nov. 30 to head Walker's re-election campaign, the newspapers said.

A spokesman for Walker was quoted in the reports as saying he believed there was nothing improper about de Grazia's use of state planes since he still performs duties for the state without pay. However, the spokesman was unable to explain the altered flight documents or say what official duties de Grazia was performing when he took the flights.

Dixon sounds warning to Democrats

By ROBERT H. NELLIS

"You failed," repeatedly and emotionally said the speaker and vociferously prophesied, "You can fail again!"

The one who uttered this charge and ominously issued the warning was State Treasurer Alan Dixon, candidate for the Democratic nomination to run for secretary of state, who spoke to 155 persons attending a dinner reception for him held Thursday in Emerald Hill.

The failure he referred to was four years ago when Democrats nominated Daniel Walker to run for governor over Paul Simon, then lieutenant governor.

Dixon reminded his Democratic listeners he was campaign chairman for Simon when he ran for the gubernatorial nomination.

"Paul Simon is the most decent man I have ever known in public service. He is independent and well qualified."

"But Dan Walker convinced the people Paul Simon was a machine politician, had no moral principles and was not the man Democrats should nominate to run for governor."

"You failed in 1972; I failed, too!"

Dixon's utterance of this charge and confession occurred many times and his voice became more shrill with each repetition until he was almost screaming.

"We did a great disservice to a great man who is now in Congress and who will one day be a great man in our party," advised Dixon.

"It could happen again," he forewarned.

"We have a man who is now candidate for governor who is a decent man and he is Michael J. Howlett, who has served longer in state government than only one other individual. He has been a first-class officer," commented the candidate running for the office Howlett now holds.

"They are trying to destroy him now. Man only has his reputation on this earth," philosophically observed the speaker.

"Howlett never took $50,000 to make a person head of a state department," challenged Dixon. He did not mention Walker's name but this charge was leveled at the present governor.

"He is a good man and I am proud to support him," declared the state treasurer.

"We can't fail again, our party has its reputation at stake," forebodingly uttered Dixon.

The candidate, who had a long legislative career before being elected in 1970 as state treasurer and re-elected to that office in 1974, asserted Walker tells one thing when he is in Chicago and makes another statement when downstate.

He charged the governor took money and support from the state regular Democratic organization and then continually spoke against those who were helping him.

"I hope my party wants a man for governor who does what he says he will do," petitioned Dixon.

"We do not need one who said he would cut the budget by half a billion dollars and then raised the spending amount."

"We do not want the one who said he would not appoint county chairmen to state jobs but now he has 12 of them on the payroll," counseled the state treasurer.

He then turned to the only reference in his address to his own opponent, who is Vincent DeMuzio, D-Carlisle, a state senator. Dixon thundered, "He says he is against patronage, but his mother, his father, his three sisters are all on the state payroll and before she quit, his wife worked for the state and he was a state employee before being elected senator."

During a press conference before the dinner, Dixon told reporters DeMuzio should tell the truth when he is leveling charges against him. He referred to his opponent's claim Dixon has only two blacks on his staff of about 90 people. "The truth is," Dixon cited, "I employ seven blacks." He said he did not believe in a quota system and was not particularly proud he had only seven black employees, "but the important thing is to keep the record straight."

Asked about a comment he made Monday in La Salle, when he told a reporter "It was a difficult struggle to get the support of Mayor Daley for his candidacy for secretary of state," Dixon replied: "Before I said I would run for governor, I waited to see what Howlett was going to do."

"It would do nothing but elect Dan Walker if Howlett and I opposed each other."

"Howlett continued to say he would not run for governor and maintained he was going to seek re-election as secretary of state."

"Then on Oct. 6, I announced I would run for governor being convinced Howlett was not going to," recalled Dixon.

When Howlett finally decided to run for governor, "I was not going to oppose him because he is my friend and because neither of us would get the nomination, if we ran against each other," predicted the state treasurer.

"I held my ground when the mayor (Richard J. Daley) was not in favor of me running for secretary of state and I finally got the party's support," recounted the candidate.

"I am nobody's man but my own; I wear only my own hat; I'm not a puppet," exclaimed Dixon.

This reporter earlier on Thursday interviewed State Sen. William C. Harris, R-Pontiac, the unopposed candidate for Republican nomination to run for secretary of state.

Harris proposed changing the deadline for installing license plates. When Dixon was asked for his position on this issue, he replied, "The change in date for license plate deadlines will cost extra money one time in the switchover year. Also the change will be a practical problem for farmers and I would like to get an expression or attitude from farm groups before taking a position."

"However, if the General Assembly wants to appropriate the money for the changeover, I have no objection," he said.

Dixon said he favored the multiyear license plates because they will save the state money.

Harris also favors the state returning to biennial budgeting and Dixon indicated he also believes that would be a good idea.

State Treasurer Alan Dixon, third from the left, candidate for the Democratic nomination to run for secretary of state, discussed campaign strategy with three Lee County Democratic candidates who, from the left, are John Payne, running for the office of state's attorney; Thomas Anderson, for coroner, and Edward Conroy, seeking the nomination to run for circuit clerk. Help-to make U.S. better place to live

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Millions of good people want to help our country. But they feel as if a firing squad had just finished shooting and was now kicking around the corpse. They feel helpless. "I'm just one person. I feel so powerless. As an individual, what can I do?" they ask.

Take heart. What can you do? Plenty!

What everyone can do is to lift his own grain of sand. Too little effect? Oh, no. The pooled effort of lifting grain by grain can lift our whole country.

Let's be specific about things you can do:

Vote in all local, state or national elections. Be sure to vote—and vote intelligently. That's grain of sand No. 1. Etched on the cornice of the state capitol at Lincoln, Neb., are these important words: "The Safety of the Nation Depends on the Watchfulness of its Citizens." This means you and me.

Everyone needs information to vote intelligently. We need facts, not propaganda. Then we must make our individual minds stop, look, absorb and respond. The effort begins close to home. So does the effort of being a good parent.

It's important that the young be trained to parental discipline, but we have watched that essential eroded until almost any youth can defy authority and not only be patted on the head but applauded by a large part of an older generation which should have known better.

Next, find out what is really going on in your community. Keep posted. Join a local civic association—the Rotary, Kiwanis or Elks, to name only a few—and charity organizations like the Salvation Army rolls, community chest groups, etc. If they're weak, help to make them stronger and more worthwhile. Take part in them.

If you're in business, join a business group; your local chamber of commerce or others. Vote in these meetings. Make yourself heard.

If you're a union person, attend your union meetings. Stay as long as the meetings last. In theory a strike is supposed to serve the workers' interest, putting pressure on the employer to agree to the sort of contract they want. But again and again union leaders decide they "need" a strike. Cast your vote.

If you have a son or daughter in school, join the parent-teacher association. Make sure your children are getting the kind of education that equips them to think for themselves.

What we should remember about education and its institutions in general is the primary meaning of the word "education." It means to "draw out." Teaching is a hard, exacting and often frustrating profession. But into the hands of teachers come the millions of young minds that, with proper teaching, are capable of unlimited development.

If you are an alumnus of a college or university, become active in the alumni association. Go to the meetings. Much can be done to improve your institution of higher learning. For example, ignorance is in the saddle regarding American history. Write the deans and ask if American history is a required course, and if not why not.

In the fight against inflation we must do our part as consumers. It requires a national frame of mind based on the individual attitudes of we, the people. We cannot leave everything to President Ford and the Congress.

As individuals, we can also keep out of debt. Only by living within our means can we help our country and ourselves. This is hard to do but it must be done. Debts are a first mortgage on the future of every family. Remember that the Latin origin of the word "debt" itself, loosely translated, means "death."

Don't feel so helpless because you cannot change things for the better all alone or all at once that you fail to help at all. No matter who you are, or what you do, you can help America. As individuals we are the essential element. Our nation will be precisely what we are—and what we make it.

The answer to "What can I do?" contains no lack of specifics. Good people do not always lift the grain of sand that they should lift—but that's the challenge.

Church eyes 'reform' candidacy

WASHINGTON (LENS)—Circumstances, in addition to his own well developed news sense, have made Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) famous as an authority on dirty tricks in foreign parts. His major work in this field, the final report of the Senate select committee "to study government operations with respect to intelligence activities," has to be completed by March 15, and once that is done he will feel free to announce himself as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Already fund-raising letters have gone out from an office in Washington not far from the capitol where the telephone is answered with: "Good morning, Church for president." Whether a reputation as the scourge of immorality in undercover intelligence operations, and the inquisitor of corrupt practices by American corporations abroad, is the best thing to recommend a man to an electorate searching for its next president is a matter on which doubt is widespread.

The fall-out of bad news that was felt from Holland to Japan recently from Sen. Church's offices did not come from Sen. Church the chairman of the Senate select committee on intelligence, it came from Sen. Church the chairman of the subcommittee on multinational corporations of the Senate foreign relations committee.

The Lockheed Aircraft Corporation long since admitted having scattered many millions of dollars round the world in sweeteners and secret commissions to important foreigners to help the sales of its military and civil aircraft. It put up a long struggle against disclosing all the details, and particularly the recipients' names, believing that to tell all might be bad for its future business.

By a mishap that is having unfortunate consequences for eminent men in several countries, some papers that revealed the obnoxious details were wrapped up in a bundle going from the company's auditors to Sen. Church's subcommittee. The fat was in the fire.

In the hearings two weeks ago Carl Kottchian, the Lockheed president, was spared having to name the names in public, but he did have to tell the staff, and he had to make public much detail that corroborated rumors long familiar about who had got the money in Holland, Germany, Italy, Sweden, Japan and elsewhere. Roughly what has been admitted amounts to some $22 million in improper payments since 1970, though obviously there were others earlier; two of the three payments alleged to have been made to Prince Bernhard date from 1961 and 1962, when the Lockheed F104 fighter was being sold.

Luck (bad for some, good for others) has been having a field day, but it is not by chance that Frank Church is chairman of two committees that have been extracting lurid confessions from the intelligence community and the multinational corporations concurrently.

An early ripple of the wave of scandals that destroyed the Nixon Administration came from the allegations against the International Telephone and Telegraph Company published by Jack Anderson, the columnist, early in 1972. On the one hand the allegations involved the justice department and suggested domestic political corruption; on the other they suggested undercover work in Chile against the late President Allende and involved, besides ITT, the Central Intelligence Agency.

The Senate foreign relations committee responded by setting up a subcommittee on multinationals, with Sen. Church in the chair; he waited until the presidential election was over and reopened the subject with public hearings in the spring of 1973, when the Nixon Administration was beginning to get into trouble over the Watergate affair itself.

What with one thing and another the CIA became a tempting target for investigation, and so two years ago the Senate set up the select intelligence committee, the life of which is now about to expire.

Sen. Church was a natural choice for chairman. In his handling of the hearings he has shown a great flair for publicity and has been careful to avoid the partisan and intra-party quarrels that gave the parallel committee of the House of Representatives a hard life and an undignified death.

The report of the House committee was killed, or at least put to sleep, by a decisive vote of the full House on Jan. 29. Before that some copies had got loose and large parts of it were printed in the Village Voice. But the Church committee has never made the agreement with the White House which the Pike committee was accused of violating.

It expects, and is taking care, that no obstacle will arise to publication of what, if Sen. Church has anything to do with it, will be known as the Church report. Alread-dy there is a Church bill in the Senate, the subject of much future debate, to provide for future Senate oversight of the intelligence community.

If he stays in the Senate, Church can almost count on being the next chairman of the foreign relations committee, assuming that Sen. John Sparkman vacates the seat on his 79th birthday at the end of 1978. Under Sparkman the committee is rather quiescent; Church would make more of it. He is, however, more ambitious than that and most likely will take a shot, or more probably two shots, at the presidency.

At age 51 he has 19 years in the Senate behind him, an unusual thing; but then he was a boy wonder who won an American Legion scholarship to university at 16 as a reward for his oratorical skill. The same talent, eked out with a useful political connection by marriage in Idaho, brought him into the Senate at 32.

Representing Idaho as a liberal Democrat, which by and large Church is, is not an easy thing. Coming from there he has to oppose gun control, a favorite liberal cause, and does so flatly. He supported President Ford's handling of the Mayaguez incident.

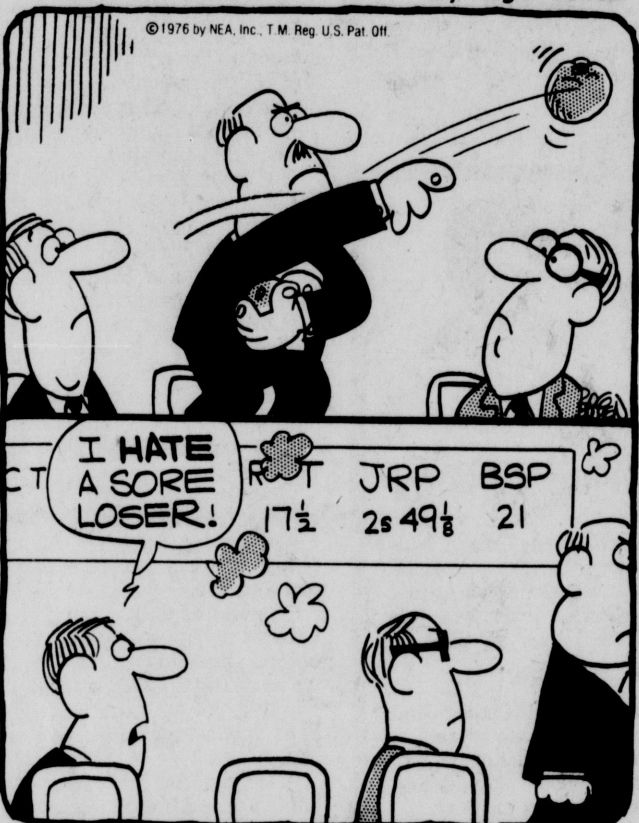

Step by step he made a reputation as a liberal with the carefully drawn amendments that limited the presidential war power in Indochina between 1970 and 1975: first the Cooper-Church amendment, then the Case-Church one, the name Church cropping up regularly and not by accident. He made a stir in 1971 by coming out flatly against the entire foreign aid program—which might be the action of a liberal or, again, might not.

Now he has an additional reputation, that of a stern monitor of the great corporations, a position that goes down well enough in Idaho and other parts of the country besides, but one that he will have to share with other liberal Democrats who have got into the campaign earlier. Each of the liberal Democratic candidates suffers a difficulty in differentiating himself from the others; this may be Church's difficulty, too.

Sen. Church: "scourge of intelligence agencies, inquisitor of corrupt corporations"

U.S. made foreign cars

Back when foreign cars were a novelty in this country, some Volkswagens sported signs saying "Made in der voods by elves."

In the not-too-distant future, the "voods" will be located somewhere in the Eastern U.S. and the "elves" will be American citizens. The foreign car is applying for naturalization papers.

Foreign automakers, who sold more than 1.5 million cars in the United States in 1975 in what was otherwise a lackluster sales year to capture a record 18.3 per cent of the market, are not exactly rushing to build or acquire plants in this country. But two of the largest ones are dipping their toes in the water, and if they find it warm, and especially if world economic conditions improve, others will no doubt follow.

The first domesticized Volvo will roll off the company's assembly line in Chesapeake, Va., next year, using pre-painted bodies, chassis and other major components shipped over from Sweden and put together by American workers.

Volkswagen has completed a tour of potential assembly sites near Detroit, Pittsburgh and Cleveland and is expected to announce its decision in April. The last-named city, in fact, has offered the company a cool $1 million in the form of federally subsidized manpower training grants as an inducement to take over an abandoned tank plant.

Since Volkswagen contemplates building as many as 200,000 cars a year in the United States, this would mean thousands of jobs for American workers and a welcome economic boost for any city.

Japanese companies like Toyota and Nissan, maker of the Datsun, are reportedly seriously considering U.S. assembly plants but are still holding back because of the lingering effects of the recession and the energy crisis.

As Charles D. Dole, automotive editor of the Christian Science Monitor points out, Volvo will not be the first foreign automaker to build cars in America. Rolls-Royce, Mercedes, Peugeot, Fiat and others did so in the early years of the automobile before World War I. As recently as the 1950s, Volkswagen owned a plant in New Jersey but decided it could build cars better and cheaper in Germany.

Since then, however, labor costs in Europe have risen to levels comparable with ours, and while neither Volvo nor Volkswagen expects to be able to sell its American-made cars for less than the imported versions, there are numerous advantages to assembling cars in the market in which they are sold. For the potential American buyer, it should certainly mean quicker delivery and better availability of parts and service.

But what does it all mean to Detroit? Of a surety, much stiffer competition than the foreign automakers have hitherto presented—and that has been stiff enough.

Are you watching too much television?

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — You've been watching way too much television lately if you:

—Can't recall whether Walter Cronkite, John Chancellor or Harry Reasoner won last night's New Hampshire primary.

—Have seen John Wayne doing an impression of Rich Little.

—Was thrilled at CBS' plans for live coverage of Muhammad Ali's next title fight, against Mason Reese (the commercials start at 9 p.m. EST, the bout an hour and 55 minutes later).

—Shrug when the television reporter asks the badly injured accident victim, "Can you tell us how you felt when the train hit your bicycle?"

—Watch a Saturday afternoon commercial, obediently pick up the phone as the announcer says, "Now, here's where to call..." and wind up wondering why you paid $6.95 for 20 old Teresa Brewer records.

—Believe the Public Broadcasting Service is made possible by a grant from the British Broadcasting Corporation.

—Quiet down during those dog food commercials where a coyote howls and Lorne Green whispers, "Shh! Listen! Listen!"

—Have seen the "American Academy of Humor Awards," "The People's Choice Awards," and "The American Music Awards" but still plan to watch the "Academy of Country Music Awards" as well as the shows handing out Tony, Grammy, Emmy and Oscar awards.

—Haven't heard rumors ABC will radically alter its summer Olympics show by televising every event live and in sequence while Jim McKay describes every event on tape and out of sequence. To heighten interest, Curt Gowdy reportedly will cover Pierre Salinger.

—Don't wonder why studio audiences don't hold up signs saying "Clap! Clap!" when the studio sign overhead flashes "Please Applaud."

—Think "Rich Man, Poor Man" is a spin-off situation comedy about the Six Million Dollar Man's first and second visit to the Internal Revenue Service.

But seriously, folks, commercial television's rerun season is drawing nigh and you might give some thought to trying some new wares public television will be offering from March 7 through March 22.

The specials, 22 in all, will be aired during PBS' "Festival '76," when local stations hold fund-raising drives and try to make viewers more aware of public television.

The list of attractions includes "I Regret Nothing," a program about the late, great French singer, Edith Piaf; "Benito Mussolini, My Husband," a study of the Italian dictator, with interviews of his widow and one of his sons; and "Mel Torme in Concert with Woody Herman."

Other goodies include a 10-program series of excerpts of early silent comedy films starring Laurel and Hardy; a whimsical documentary about this year's Superbowl bash; and "The Good Old Days of Radio," hosted by Steve Allen.

Renewed interest in high-cost films

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)— The depression may be over. At least in Hollywood and that could be the bellwether for the world.

They're making big pictures again, pictures that cost a lot and look it. It's full speed ahead and don't spare the dollars at Columbia, where director Mark Rydell is making a genuine, old-fashioned biggie called "Harry and Walter Go To New York."

At least that's the temporary title. Nobody is too happy with it. It was designed to reflect the kind of titles they stuck on novels during the period—the turn of the century—when the movie is set.

"But who remembers what titles of novels were at that time?" one of the production staff gumbled. "And, besides, the public will think this is another 'Harry and Tonto,' which it isn't."

Far from it. "Harry and Tonto" was a gem of a film, but a small film "Harry and Walter Go To New York" may or may not turn out to be a gem, but there can be no gainsaying its largeness.

It is budgeted at $7 million, and there haven't been many $7 million pictures lately. It has a 16-week shooting schedule, about twice as long as today's average. And it has one of the most lavish (and thus expensive) indoor sets built in Hollywood in some time.

The set is supposed to be a semi-replica of a real New York establishment of the early 20th Century, a place called Shang Draper's 6th Avenue Oyster House. They served more than oysters there.

"Please, during the rehearsals," the assistant director called out to the horde of extras, "don't sniff the cocaine."

Cocaine?

One of the extras, a handsome dark-haired girl, was passing among the diners and gamblers with a small tray. On it was a dish of white powder and she would give certain gentlemen a pinch on a spoon, and they would sniff it up, a nostril at a time.

"Sure they used cocaine then," one of the hangers-on said. "How else could they wear those clothes and smile?"

The clothes were fancy. Designer Theoni V. Aldredge—she won an Oscar for "The Great Gatsby"—said she had fun designing them.

"Period pieces are always fun for a designer," Ms. Aldredge said. "And nobody ever gives you an argument, either."

She said some of her inspirations came from the old Godey's Lady's Book, the fashion magazine of the period. She's poured her heart and talent into this wardrobe, and she's saddened by the fact that, as usual, the ownership of the dresses and suits reverts back to the studio after the filming is over.

"The clothes become the property of Columbia," she says. "They'll use them again—and when that happens it kills you a little."

Even the dresses for the extras, like the cocaine girl, cost around $1,000 a copy. And the one Leslie Warren was wearing in that scene, Miss Aldredge said, was a $1,200 number. She said she made about 100 dresses for the film, almost as many as she made for "Gatsby."

Because of the expensiveness of the gowns, the extras were rehearsing with smocks over their heads, highly unusual for Hollywood. To make the dresses, and the women look right, they were even wearing period underwear underneath, and they said it hurt. The women complained about being gored by whalebone corsets.

Miss Aldredge had found some original dresses of the period, and had thought to use them. But, she said, today's women couldn't fit into them—their waists were too big.

The set in which the costumes were parading was as elegant as it could be. Heavy wood paneling. Stained glass windows. Plush carpets. Gas jets with real gas, and technicians standing by with tapers to light them. The stained glass, they said, had been especially made here for the film.

And there are high-priced actors to fit into the high-priced set. James Caan, Michael Caine, Elliott Gould and Diane Keaton have the leads in this story of a couple of crummy vaudevillians who become safe-crackers.

"Finally," director Rydell said, "I have a chance to do a full-out, romping comedy—but it's a comedy with social overtones. It's a marvelous collage of disparate elements—vaudeville, crime and elegance."

He was supervising a very complicated shot. Caine walks through the gambling hall, greeting a man here, kissing a girl there. The camera had to follow him the full length of the huge room, and everywhere he went there had to be action and conversation.

At one point, Rydell wanted men walking past the windows on the outside, making shadows on the wall, making the men to cast those shadows had to be cued when to start walking. That was accomplished, supposedly, by a cue light—a bulb on a long extension cord which lit when Rydell pressed a button. But the light didn't work, and that small detail held up production a half-hour. That's how costs mount in Hollywood.

Rydell also had his huge cast rehearse by the numbers. As he counted off, they all knew what they were supposed to do and when they were supposed to do it. They went over it dozens of times. Each time, Rydell would change an extra's position or movement.

It had taken a couple of hours already, and the shot was not finished. The meter was ticking away, the dollars mounting.

Ask Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Some months ago, perhaps even a year, Otto Preminger was on the Tonight show and referred to a certain book as being "the best ever written about Hollywood." Will you please try to find out what the book was. Do you agree? If not, what book(s) do you think are the best? GEORGE H. WALTERS, Tucson, Ariz.

Unfortunately, nobody in either the Tonight show office nor in Mr. Preminger's office remembers what that book is. Even Otto's assistant, charged with remembering things, has forgotten. So obviously, I cannot agree or disagree with his choice. There have been many excellent books on Hollywood. If you want a history, Ezra Goodman's "The Fifty Year Decline and Fall of Hollywood" is still one of the best. If you want to read about the glamor and peccadillos, David Niven's current best seller, "Bring On the Empty Horses," has plenty to keep you interested.

DEAR DICK: No one seems to know the truth about Cat Stevens and his supposed terminal illness. Is it just a P.R. Stunt or is it true? M.A.L., Garden Grove, Calif.

Neither. It is certainly not true, but no responsible public relations person ever starts sick rumors about sicknesses. It's just one of those nasty rumors that inexplicably sweep the nation periodically about one star or another. It's just Cat's turn. He's well and healthy.

DEAR DICK: Recently, I heard Hal Linden sing a song on Dinah Shore's show. All I remember are the lines, "You made me so very happy, I'm so glad you came into my life." What is the name of the song and has anyone recorded it? B.G., Wakeman, Ohio

That was a big hit song called "You Made Me So Very Happy," and recorded by Blood, Sweat and Tears some years ago.

DEAR DICK: Would you please tell me how many films Spencer Tracy and Elizabeth Taylor made together, and the names of the pictures. RONNIE SMITH, Thomasville, Ala.

Tracy and Taylor made two films together. The first was the big hit, "Father of the Bride," in 1950, which was so successful they did what Hollywood always does, they made a sequel. That was called "Father's Little Dividend," and it came out in '51, and was not anywhere nearly as good, or as successful, as the first.

DEAR DICK: In the movie, "The Trial of Billy Jack," the scenes were based on Jean telling the story for a novel. Was this book ever written? If so, where is it available and who was the author? DIANE LIVERSEED, Lethbridge, Alta., Can.

That was just a device, totally fictional, which the people who wrote the script (Frank and Teresa Christina) used to get into the story. However, a novelized version of "The Trial of Billy Jack" has been written, by Howard Leibling, and is available at book stores. Billy Jack Enterprises published it.

DEAR DICK: On the show, Happy Days, Richie used to have a brother. Could you please tell me who he was and what happened to him? TOMMY HUGHES, Mobile, Ala.

You're right. When the show began, there was the character of Richie's brother, played by Gavin O'Herlihy, the son of that fine actor, Dan O'Herlihy. But they decided the part was superfluous, so wrote him out by having him go off to college. If they need him, they can bring him back.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me if Cher's real name is Cher? MRS. CHER PERRINE, Killeen, Tex.

Curious question for a woman with your name to ask. But, yes, Cher has always been called Cher. Her real name is Cherilyn—Cherily Sarkisian Bono Allman, so far.

DEAR DICK: What happened to Beacon Hill? I have never enjoyed a show as much as this. My friends, neighbors and my three college sons enjoyed it, too. If Beacon Hill is off the air, where can I write to be heard. IRENE KNASIAK, King of Prussia, Pa.

Beacon Hill has folded, victim of low ratings. What it needed was a few more Kna-siaks to watch, but, alas, most people thought it a huge disappointment. If you want to write, write to your local station and-or CBS in New York. It won't do a bit of good, of course, but maybe it'll make you feel better.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me if Freddy Fender, the popular signer, is blind?—A.A., Fort Collins, Colo.

Yes, I can tell you. No, he isn't blind.

DEAR DICK: Who really is the driver of the S.W.A.T. van? I've read articles saying that his name was Roy Harrison (Snuffy) and another article saying his name was Ray Harris. What's the truth?—PAT JENKINS, Anaheim, Calif.

It's Roy Harrison, a stunt driver whose friends call him Snuffy. Although he's primarily a driver, he is seen on camera, too.

DEAR DICK: I want to know this—are Ike and Tina Turner husband and wife or are they brother and sister?—ANGELA HUNTER, Mobile, Ala.

They are husband and wife. DEAR DICK: I've made a bet that the movie, "Gone With the Wind," has never been shown on TV. Do I win or lose?—F.M., Orange, Calif.

You win. But you'd better collect pretty fast because that classic has been sold to TV and will be on sometime this year.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me how old Bob Barker, the MC of The Price Is Right is and where was he born?—LOUIS ARSENAULT, Abrams Village, P.E.I., Can.

Barker is right around 50 and he comes from a small town in Washington state called Darrington.

Two money-saving tips for homeowners

Too many homeowners have outdated insurance on their property.

So a fire, a storm, vandals or burglars can destroy or steal more than your insurance covers.

With the cost of construction and repairs going up fast, it pays to update your homeowners coverage now.

It'll pay you to check with your Country Companies agent, too. Because in most cases, he can give you the coverage you want for less with a Country Mutual homeowners policy.

Make sure you're covered at today's higher home building and repair costs. And make sure you get the most for your homeowners insurance dollars—check with your Country Companies agent today.

Danny Thomas as Doc

Veteran entertainer Danny Thomas had to pass a screen test to land his role as the gruff, grey-haired and bespectacled Dr. Jules Bedford in "The Practice," the new half-hour comedy series colorcast Fridays (7:30-8 p.m.) on NBC.

Thomas said: "In more than 35 years in show business, this was the first time I ever had to take a screen test. To make matters worse, the test was for my own company — and I'm the president of the company!"

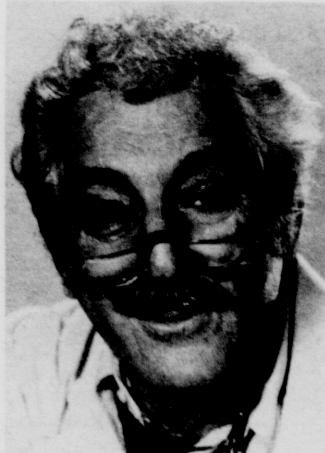

When the pilot script for "The Practice" was first submitted to Danny Thomas Productions, no one visualized Thomas for the part — except Thomas. He explained that the role of Dr. Bedford is far removed from the suave and sophisticated Thomas familiar to fans of the long-running "Make Room for Daddy" series.

"I was sure I was right for the part but my son Tony, an executive of the company, didn't agree," Thomas continued, explaining how the screen test came about. "Tony asked me to promise I wouldn't get mad if he told me something. I said I wouldn't get mad. He said, 'Honor bright?'"

(Thomas explained that "honor bright" is the "cross my heart and hope to die" of the Thomas clan. As far as he knows, no family member has ever broken a promise solemnized by this oath. He recalls a time when daughter Marlo was heading for a high school prom. He asked her what time she'd be home. "Twelve o'clock," she said. "Honor bright?" he asked. When she hesitated, he said, "Be home by one, will you?" At five to one, she was home).

"Honor bright," Danny responded, wondering.

"We're considering another actor for the part ... if you really want it you'll have to test for it," Tony said hurriedly.

"I promised I wouldn't get mad; what could I do? I got mad ... but I didn't show it," Thomas admitted with a comic and characteristic shamefaced expression. Finally, Danny agreed to do the test. Tony got on the phone to Marlo, who was headlining a Broadway play at the time, and she made the test arrangements in New York.

Thomas continued: "They set up a company called Amos Jacobs (Danny's real name) Productions and arranged to tape the test at ABC in New York — the whole thing was going to be a big secret."

Marlo selected scenes from the pilot script, handled casting and staged rehearsals for three days in Danny's suite at the Waldorf.

Thomas said: "When we got to the studio for the test, Marlo told the make-up man to make me look like 60. Make me look like 60? I am 60! 'Actually, I didn't make up, I made down. Dr. Bedford has grey hair. I have grey hair, but I've got more black in my hair than you'll see in the show.'"

The parents who raised you are your 'real parents'

Dear Ann Landers: I see by the papers that Rod McKuen is spending a lot of money and an enormous amount of time and energy trying to locate his real father.

Your advice to adopted kids who have written about this has always been, "Forget it — leave well enough alone," or words to that effect.

Do you still believe your advice is right? In the past you have admitted you were wrong on occasion and I always admired you for having the courage to do so. How about switching sides on this issue? — Reading in Roanoke

Dear R. in R.: There's a big difference between Rod McKuen, a middle-aged adult trying to find his father, and a teenager who is angry (or bored) with adoptive parents and has fantasies about locating a brand new set of relatives who are more attractive, wealthier, "more understanding" or what have you.

It is a matter of record that when a mother who has put her child up for adoption changes her mind several years later and goes through the courts to get the child back, she often wins. The results are heart-breaking not only for the child, but for the adoptive parents.

My position is as follows: The parents who raised you are your "real parents." One set should be enough for anybody.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married ten years. We have two children, a son 8 and a daughter 5. The problem: Our marriage. My husband's good points are his faithfulness and his paycheck. His bad points could fill this page.

He has a very low IQ, never reads a thing, can't spell and his manners are gross. He has a foul temper and a very big mouth. The man despises his son but he is crazy about his daughter. The boy has become a problem in school and his teacher suggested counseling for both my husband and me. The counselor saw us together twice, then asked me to come alone. On that visit she inquired, "Why do you stay with him?"

Our marriage is a shambles. We have no social life. He could spend every night with his eyeballs wired into the TV screen. I have tried to interest him in politics, but he still thinks Truman is President. He is so ignorant you wouldn't believe the things that come out of that man's mouth.

I don't want to stay married to him but the problem is money. I work, but my salary is minimal. I want the best for my children — schooling, clothes, camp, all the nice things. Moving out might mean hot dogs, living in a dump and maybe no college for the kids. Will you please help me decide? — D.C.

Dear D.C.: Not on your tin-type, lady. Look at the facts and decide for yourself — provided you can see them. Those dollar signs in your eyes may have done irreparable damage to your vision.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a lonely widow who craves companionship. I have heard of an organization that helps match couples up. It is not a Lonely Hearts club but a scientific foundation, run by a doctor. Would you give it your Ok. based on these facts? — Alone And Hate It

Dear Alone: No, I would not. Strangers can be dangerous — even if they are brought together by a so-called doctor. Mate-finding agencies, no matter what they call themselves, are in business to make money. So wake up and smell the coffee. The word from here is beware.

Yingling-Delhotal wed

Miss Jean Yingling and Dennis Delhotal recently exchanged nuptial vows at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Dixon, with the Rev. David Kagan officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Elaine Nussbaum and Donald Yingling, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Delhotal, all of Franklin Grove. During the ceremony, a white rose was given to the mothers of the couple.

Mrs. Patricia Blackburn, Lee Center, provided organ music while Gene Selover, Amboy, sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white satin gown featuring a gathered skirt with an old-fashioned ruffle flounce. The bodice was designed with a stand-up collar edged with lace and a cape-collared overlay. A satin cap with lace secured a full-length veil of tulle. The bridal bouquet combined daisies, Elegance carnations, baby's breath and fern with white lace ribbon.

Attending as maid of honor was Miss Michele Sedlock, Ottawa. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Beverly Briggs, Dixon; Mrs. Diane Worman, Rock Island; Mrs. Lynda Carver, Edington; and the junior attendant was Miss Sherri Yingling, Franklin Grove. Their dark brown double-knit gowns with orange, white and yellow daisies were styled like the bridal gown.

The attendants carried fire-side baskets filled with orange

Elegance carnations, yellow daisies, yellow starbursts and baby's breath accented with lace and orange ribbon.

Serving as best man was Thomas Hann, Franklin Grove. Groomsmen were Fred Briggs, Alan Smith, Dixon; and Rick Kettley, Compton. The guests were seated by Rick Kessler, Prairieville; Dennis Baylor, Lee Center; Jim Davison, Grand Detour; and Glenn Pettenger, Amboy.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Knights of Columbus Home in Dixon. Miss Sheila Friel, Rock Falls, and Mrs. Carol Erismann, Franklin Grove, served cake. Punch was served by Mrs. Patsy Davis while Miss Brenda Jones, West Brooklyn, served coffee. Guests were registered by Miss Susan Jones. In charge of gifts were Mrs. Deb Willwerth, Camanche, Iowa; and Mrs. Lisa Davison, Grand Detour. Other assistants were Misses Kim and Shelly Fick, Franklin Grove.

Since their honeymoon to Tennessee and Disney World in Florida, the newlyweds have been residing in Franklin Grove.

A graduate of Franklin Center, the new Mrs. Delhotal attended business school in Davenport, Iowa, and is presently a free lance court reporter in Dixon. Mr. Delhotal is a Franklin Center graduate and attended Sauk Valley College for one year. He is presently engaged in farming.

Shuffle gone off to Buffalo

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand is the opposite of a freak. It is produced any time you deal out a new pack without giving it one shuffle. You can cut as often as you like, but this comes after no shuffle at all.

Before the American Contract Bridge League used computers to produce the duplicated hands used in major championships the late George Goff used to deal them all out personally. George was a man of great honesty, but he got old and the last year that he made them up he produced one unshuffled hand for the open pairs.

It was caught early and thrown out, but before this happened, one pair had achieved some real notoriety. North made one of those shaded third-hand bids. South responded with an unsound two notrump and North compounded the felony by going to game.

West opened the five of hearts. Dummy played low and the defense started with four heart tricks. Then West led the three of clubs. East won and led back a low club. South played low and the defense added four club tricks. They still had to get another so South was down five.

Nine school districts hit on segregation

CHICAGO (AP) — Nine local school districts in Illinois, including those of Chicago, Rockford and Springfield, have been held by the state Board of Education to be in violation of desegregation guidelines.
The board's ruling Thursday could ultimately cause a shutoff of federal funding for the districts.
State Supt. Joseph M. Cronin said the districts would be notified of the board's action by mail, and would have 30 days from receipt of the letters to file a plan to meet the guidelines.
Cronin said failure could place the district on probation and—if no satisfactory action is taken within 13 months—"non-recognized status," which could cause the loss of the state and federal funds.
"What will you do with those districts that have known for four years that they were in violation of state laws concerning racial equality?" Cronin asked the board.
"The state board, I remind you, is acting under the U.S. Constitution and federal and state laws," Cronin said. "It seeks quality, integrated education, desegregation and the elimination of racially identifiable schools."
Witnesses told the board that in Chicago, 586 of the city's 667 school buildings did not comply with integration standards.
The standards say the percentage of minority group students in a school cannot vary more than 15 per cent from the percentage of minority group students in the entire district.
Testimony showed some schools in the state contain 100 per cent minority group students.

Also cited by the board for noncompliance were Argo-Summit District 104, Cahokia 187, Chicago Heights 170, Hazelcrest 152.5, Madison 12, and Waukegan 60.

Each of the nine districts had been notified in 1972 that it was not in compliance with desegregation standards and instructed that year to submit a desegregation plan.

Board member Frederick Palmer, who complained he had not been permitted to ask questions about the affected districts by board chairman Jack Witkowski, voted against six of the nine non-compliance findings. Witkowski said Palmer's questions did not relate to the issues under discussion.

Two districts that were not in compliance in 1971—Rock Island and Joliet—are now preparing plans.

The state board's current rules were adopted at its Feb. 12 meeting. They were filed with the Secretary of State on Feb. 18.

Held in jail

OREGON — Kenneth L. Hahn, 27, Rt. 1, Chana, was being held in Ogle County jail today following his arrest by sheriff's deputies Thursday. Hahn is accused of battery in connection with a fight involving his wife, Mary Hahn. He was scheduled to appear in court today.

Lucille Smith, 420 W. Graham told Dixon Police on Jan. 8 that her car was missing. She signed a complaint accusing her son Phillip B. Smith of taking the car without her permission. Police learned that Mrs. Smith was waiting for her son to pickup her up after work on Jan. 7, but he did not arrive.

Smith, 36, address unknown, was brought to the Lee County Law Enforcement Center where he was held pending a court appearance.

Arrested on battery warrant

Stanton D. Vaughn, 34, was arrested by Dixon Police Thursday after a warrant charging him with battery had been issued.

Files suit claiming he is Lindbergh son

HONOLULU (AP) — A man claiming to be Charles Lindbergh Jr. has filed suit in Hawaii's Maui County Probate Court to have himself declared an heir to the estate of the late Charles A. Lindbergh, lawyer Ted Meeker says.

Kenneth Kerwin, who also calls himself Charles Lindbergh Jr., said the body of a baby found after the 1932 Lindbergh baby kidnapping was that of someone other than the Lindbergh child, according to the Honolulu lawyer.

Meeker said his client has tried unsuccessfully to convince the Lindbergh family that he is the son of Charles and Anne Morrow Lindbergh. No family member was immediately available for comment.

NBC-TV telecast a three-hour movie on the kidnapping Thursday night.

Kerwin alleges that the body identified as that of the Lindbergh baby was actually that of another child, who died of natural causes, Meeker said. He said his client says he was kidnapped by the Kerwin family, possibly with the aid of Bruno Hauptmann, who was convicted and executed for the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby.

Kerwin in his suit seeks a portion of the estate valued at between $300,000 and "several million dollars," according to the lawyer.

Meeker said the Lindbergh will leaves one-third of the estate to the widow, with the remaining two-thirds to be divided equally among the five acknowledged children.

He said Kerwin seeks to have the children's proportion split six ways, with one-sixth going to him.

No other details about Kerwin were available immediately.

Hartigan sees big issue in primary race

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan says there is one overriding issue in the primary election contest for the Democratic nomination: "Who is best qualified to step in and run state government should the need arise."

"You can talk about anything else you want but that's the primary issue in any lieutenant governor's race," the 37-year-old former aide to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley said.

Hartigan, seeking a second term, faces Joanne Alter, 48, a commissioner of the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, in the March 16 Democratic primary election. Both candidates went before Democratic slatemakers in December.

Hartigan asked to run for secretary of state and had lined up a number of individuals and groups who he said had endorsed him for the job.

Mrs. Alter asked to be slated for lieutenant governor.

Hartigan was slated to run for another term in his current job, and Mrs. Alter was passed over by regular party leaders.

That, she says, is another issue in the campaign.

"Mayor Daley ordered Neil Hartigan to run for lieutenant governor. That's the major difference between me and my opponent," Mrs. Alter said at a recent news conference.

Mrs. Alter said she would not step out of the lieutenant governor's race and a few days after the slatemaking sessions ended, she was endorsed by Gov. Daniel Walker as his running mate.

Walker and Hartigan were nominated in 1972 from different wings of the Democratic party. But the 1970 state constitution requires the candidates of each party run as a team for the two offices. The Walker-Hartigan relationship has been anything but a cooperative one.

"When I won the primary, I went to the governor and said neither of us have written the constitution but I think we have a responsibility to try and make it work," Hartigan recalled.

"The theme he set was that we would run together and we would govern together. And that was true all the way up to election night," the lieutenant governor said.

The state constitution assigns no tasks to the office other than those which the governor may delegate or those prescribed by law. Hartigan openly opposed the governor on senior citizens programs, creation of a coal development bureaucracy and creation of an independent board to control the state fair.

Hartigan is campaigning hard for Secretary of State Michael Howlett, who is opposing Walker for the nomination for governor.

But he says if Walker and he won their respective primary contests, he would ask for public assurances that he will play a role in the administration.

Mrs. Alter, active in Democratic politics for 25 years, says she can work with either Walker or Howlett. She says she and Walker differ on some issues, such as the death penalty, which she opposes, and she won the endorsement of the Independent Voters of Illinois which refused to endorse Walker or Howlett.

Mrs. Alter says she would not be reluctant to oppose the governor whoever the governor may be.

She says Hartigan has refused to debate her. Hartigan says his opponent has passed up several opportunities to appear jointly with him before several groups.

The office of lieutenant governor can be more fully developed, Mrs. Alter says. She said she would make the office a clearing house for citizens with questions about state government, work to attract more industry to the state and attempt to get an higher return of Illinois tax dollars from the federal government.

Close scrutiny of Walker budget seen

By BARRY HANSON
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Another issue will appear in the Illinois campaign picture next week with the unveiling of Gov. Daniel Walker's proposed budget for the next fiscal year.

Interest groups from teachers to foster parents as well as the average taxpayer will be eyeballing the governor's spending plan for the year beginning July 1.

"There will be some who will complain," Walker commented when asked about the budget during a campaign swing this week. He is facing a tough fight with Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett for the Democratic nomination for governor.

The governor already has promised that state taxes will not be increased next year. This means any increases for state services financed from general tax revenue, such as education, public aid, mental health and children and family services, will have to come from the annual growth in revenue from taxes.

Estimates vary on what that growth will be.

Comptroller George Lindberg, a Republican, has said increased general fund spending must be held to $300 million or a tax increase will be inevitable. He bases that conclusion on a prediction the state will have to borrow from fiscal 1977 money in order to pay bills from the current fiscal year.

The Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, a business group that monitors the state's fiscal situation, projects a general revenue growth of $426 million next year.

But the chamber notes that requests from the state's colleges and universities and elementary and secondary education alone would more than eat up the additional tax income.

The Walker administration's estimate of revenue growth will be disclosed along with the budget on Wednesday.

The State Board of Education recently approved a budget request for fiscal 1977 of $1.89 billion, some $327 million more than appropriated this year.

The Board of Higher Education wants to spend $85.6 million more from general revenue next year than last year on the state's colleges and universities. This proposed operating budget includes a tuition increase Walker has said he will oppose.

The task of Walker's Bureau of the Budget will be to apportion the expected increases in revenue among everyone wanting them.

The General Assembly will begin considering the budget requests when it returns for regular sessions in April.

It also will be faced with several requests for so-called deficiency appropriations for spending this spring before the next fiscal year even begins.

The Board of Education already has said it needs an additional $100 million this year and higher education officials want an additional $11.2 million for community colleges.

Aides to the governor say the administration will oppose the $100 million request, but Walker said he will ask the legislature to resurrect a $20 million plan to make sure no school districts will have received less state aid this year than last.

The same proposal was ignored by the legislature last fall when it unsuccessfully attempted to override Walker's reduction of $81 million in direct school aid.

Public aid also will need additional money. Budget officials set the figure at $118 million but some legislators estimate as much as $200 million might be needed.

Walker announced last week he will seek an additional $3.9 million for state college scholarships.

And the administration will ask for some $6.4 million this year for such things as claims under the state's crime victim compensation program and required state payments into the unemployment compensation fund.

In compiling a history of my ancestors, I find that my great-grandfather, Joseph Spittler, born 1801 in Germany, lived in Dixon, Illinois for a number of years. It is at this point that we lose half of his family. He was living in Dixon in 1840, moved to JoDaviess County, Illinois before 1850, before 1870 to Sidney, Iowa, where he died in 1890. He and his wife, Mary Ann, had eleven children of which the following are known: Mary Spittler Hamblen — William, born 7 Oct., 1829 — Charity Spittler Schwindel — Henry, born 24 May, 1842 in Dixon — Joseph, born 8 April, 1843 — and Louisa Spittler Bowden. I would like to hear from any descendants of this couple and will be happy to furnish anyone interested with any of the data I am compiling on this family.

Draft Deferment

Millions of young men across the United States will be able to breathe a sigh of relief Saturday, as the nation's draft boards officially go out of business. That means that for now, American men over 18 will not be required to register for the draft or carry a draft card. America has used the draft on and off since the Revolutionary War. In 1775, the Continental Congress urged the individual colonies to form militias through conscription. During the 20th Century more than 16 million men were drafted by the federal government to serve in American wars. Until 1940, however, the United States maintained only voluntary military forces during peacetime.

DO YOU KNOW — What is the federal agency that administers the draft?

Crusader for the divorced

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Although Roman Catholicism teaches that marriage can't be dissolved, a noted American expert on Church law says justice demands that the Church recognize that divorce sometimes is right.

Msgr. Stephen J. Kelleher, a onetime ecclesiastical judge who has become a crusader in behalf of divorced, remarried Catholics, says present Church procedures, even though variously modified, remain demeaning.

"In law, the only just solution is a positive appreciation in the Church of the value of divorce when a marriage has become irrevocably intolerable to the partners in it," he said in an interview.

He said Church marriage tribunals, such as the one in the New York archdiocese on which he was presiding judge for six years, should be abolished, even though they've speeded up and eased procedures for annulments.

No matter how streamlined, he said, they can never handle more than a tiny fraction of cases of the estimated five million Catholics now in second marriages or married to divorced persons.

Under Church law, they're automatically barred from Communion — a cause of "tremendous anguish and suffering," he said, not only for them, but for children and relatives.

Some, by so-called "internal forum" decisions of conscience, conclude their marriages are valid and receive Communion anyhow. This was openly allowed in some dioceses until 1973, when the Vatican ordered it stopped.

But Msgr. Kelleher said it still goes on widely. Even so, it "casts a shadow" over the lives of those involved, he said. "It's utterly inadequate. It makes the couples exceptions to the law."

As for the stepped-up marriage tribunal operations, which he had a key role in shaping and under which annulments have increased 20-fold to about 15,000 annually in this country, he said they still are based on "bad law." He added:

"No Pope, no bishop or group of bishops, no priest or group of priests, no lay group or individual psychologists or psychiatrists are able to say a marriage never existed once a couple says 'I do.'"

The only clear warrant for annulments, he said, is in "tragic instances of idiocy or gross psychosis."

However, he said, under present tribunal practice most annulments are given on a basis of finding that one of the partners was emotionally immature, mentally sick or lacked due discretion when married — a judgment in hindsight no Church panel can realistically make.

In any case, he added, it demands a "name-calling" stigma on a person involved. He contended the tribunals actually "often are granting divorces rather than annulments" — although they can't justifiably "grant" either.

"Only the persons involved can determine whether their marriage has ceased to exist," he said. "It's time for the Church to acknowledge the right of persons to divorce and to remarry publicly in the Church."

We have all been reduced to a hole in a card.
Oh, how simple it was in our house by the road,

You're a serial number wherever you are;
And you find your identity harder to claim
When you're known by a number instead of a name.

Eagles nip Cardinals 82-79

By JIM FOX
 Telegraph Sports Writer
 POLO — Before the Franklin Center-Forreston regional semi-final contest Eagles coach Denny Kessel stated Doug Hillison and Jeff Roop had to pick up a share of the scoring if the Eagles were to overcome the Forreston Cardinals.

To say the duo responded to the situation would be a slight understatement as Hillison pumped in 28 markers and Roop 19 as the aggressive Eagles upended the Cardinals 82-79, here, Thursday night in an exciting overtime ball game. The win allows Franklin Center to advance to the championship game tonight at 7:30 versus the Mt. Morris Mounders.

For a small team the Eagles displayed a whole lot of height. Forreston boasted a starting line-up averaging 6'3", including 6'6" center, Jack Dollmeyer, while Franklin Center averaged 5'8" with 6'1" center Doug Westra being the biggest Eagle. Forreston used the height advantage throughout the contest, pulling down numerous rebounds and getting three and four shots off under its basket many times.

But, like the Eagles have demonstrated all season, height does not bother them to a large extent. Consistent shooting and excellent team work overcomes many obstacles.

Behind the scoring punch of Hillison, Jahn and Jeff Heckman the Eagles took a first quarter advantage of 22-21. Hillison netted eight markers, while Jahn added six and Heckman four. Forreston was right in it as Dollmeyer, Roger Birkholz and Brian Brown each swished four points. The first period was close all the way with Franklin Center holding the lead throughout the initial eight minutes.

Hillison connected on an early bucket in the second quarter as the visitors took a three-point margin at 24-21. Forreston's Mike Ross sank a pair of free throws and Dollmeyer pushed an offensive rebound in as the Cardinals grabbed their first advantage at 6:47 by the score of 25-24. Ross put in an offensive rebound, on the Cardinals fifth attempt to show their rebounding dominance in the first half, to boost the hosts into a three-point lead.

Heckman layed one in to cut it to a lone tally before Brown hit two free throws to nudge it back to three points. Roop took charge in a one minute span to connect for three long jumpers, countered by only one bucket from the hands of Doug Osterloo, as the Eagles once again grabbed the margin 32-31.

Forreston racked off eight consecutive markers, two points each from Osterloo, Ross, Birkholz and Brown, in the closing minutes of the half to jump ahead 39-32. Jeff Huber connected on a 30-footer off the buzzer to slash it to five and give the Eagles a lift going into the locker room.

Forreston hit hard in the opening minutes of the second half and raced ahead by nine at 45-36, before the Eagles came back. Franklin Center played patient ball and snuck back slowly, cutting the margin to four at 54-50 after three periods of action. Hillison was kept scoreless in the quarter, but Heckman picked up the slack popping in six markers while Jahn added four and Roop two buckets.

Hillison and Jahn pulled the Eagles within two at 2:22 of the final period as each pumped in six points before Jahn picked up his fifth foul and was forced to exit the contest.

The momentum was already in Franklin Center's favor, but Jahn's fouling out seemed to give the team a little extra impetus. Weinie Roop connected on a pair of 20-footers seconds later and the Eagles took a 68-66 advantage.

Dollmeyer hit on a short shot to knot it again before Hillison drove down court and put in a beautiful underhand lay-up with :47 remaining for a 70-68 advantage. Brian Brown sifted through a short turn around jumper with :10 left to stalemate the contest. Hillison and Westra missed a shot each in the closing seconds that sent the already fantastic thriller into three more minutes of hysteria.

Hillison took charge in the overtime connecting on eight of eight free throws, plus a 15-footer, while Roop popped a long one through as the Eagles used the precious momentum to slip past the Cardinals. Forreston stayed close, but the Eagles held the upper hand and would not let the hosts do any better than a tie in the extra period of playing time.

Hillison hit for two charity tosses in the opening seconds of the overtime before Brown raced downcourt for a driving lay-up to knot it. The Eagle senior forward netted two more free throws at 2:05 for a two-point margin, but Dollmeyer came right back on a short jumper.

A pair of quick buckets by Hillison and Roop boosted the visitors into a four-point advantage at 78-74 with but :51 remaining. Forreston narrowed it quickly though, as Gary Bronkema popped in one free throw and Dollmeyer grabbed the rebound on the missed second charity toss and pushed it through pulling within one at 78-77.

At :19 Hillison was fouled once again and as he stepped to the line the two free throws actually meant the game. Hillison sank both and nailed it for the Eagles. Two more free tosses at :08 from the hands of Hillison was all it wrote for the Cardinals.

"Hillison's performance speaks for itself," commented an excited Kessel after the game as his team went bananas in the lockerroom. "He just had one great night. This was definitely the best game of his career."

"It was a total team effort tonight," "I am more than proud of the team."

"Tonight proves that basketball is a team game. You don't win with one ballplayer; you have to have five guys working together. Jahn is a fantastic basketball player — there is no doubt about that — but tonight shows how important the entire team is to winning."

"We had two things going for us entering the game," continued Kessel. "Psychologically, we had the advantage. Forreston was looking ahead. They were over confident. Secondly, Forreston had not come up against a small ball club this year that checks out like we do, and this had a definite affect on them."

"It's just a great win and I am very pleased for the team."

as I have been all year long. We have the scrappiest basketball players on this club than any other team in northern Illinois."

Behind Hillison's super 28 markers and Roop's big 19 was Jahn with 16, and the senior guard divided them up mainly in the first and third periods with six in each. Jahn suffered foul trouble the first half and was forced to limited action in the second and third quarters.

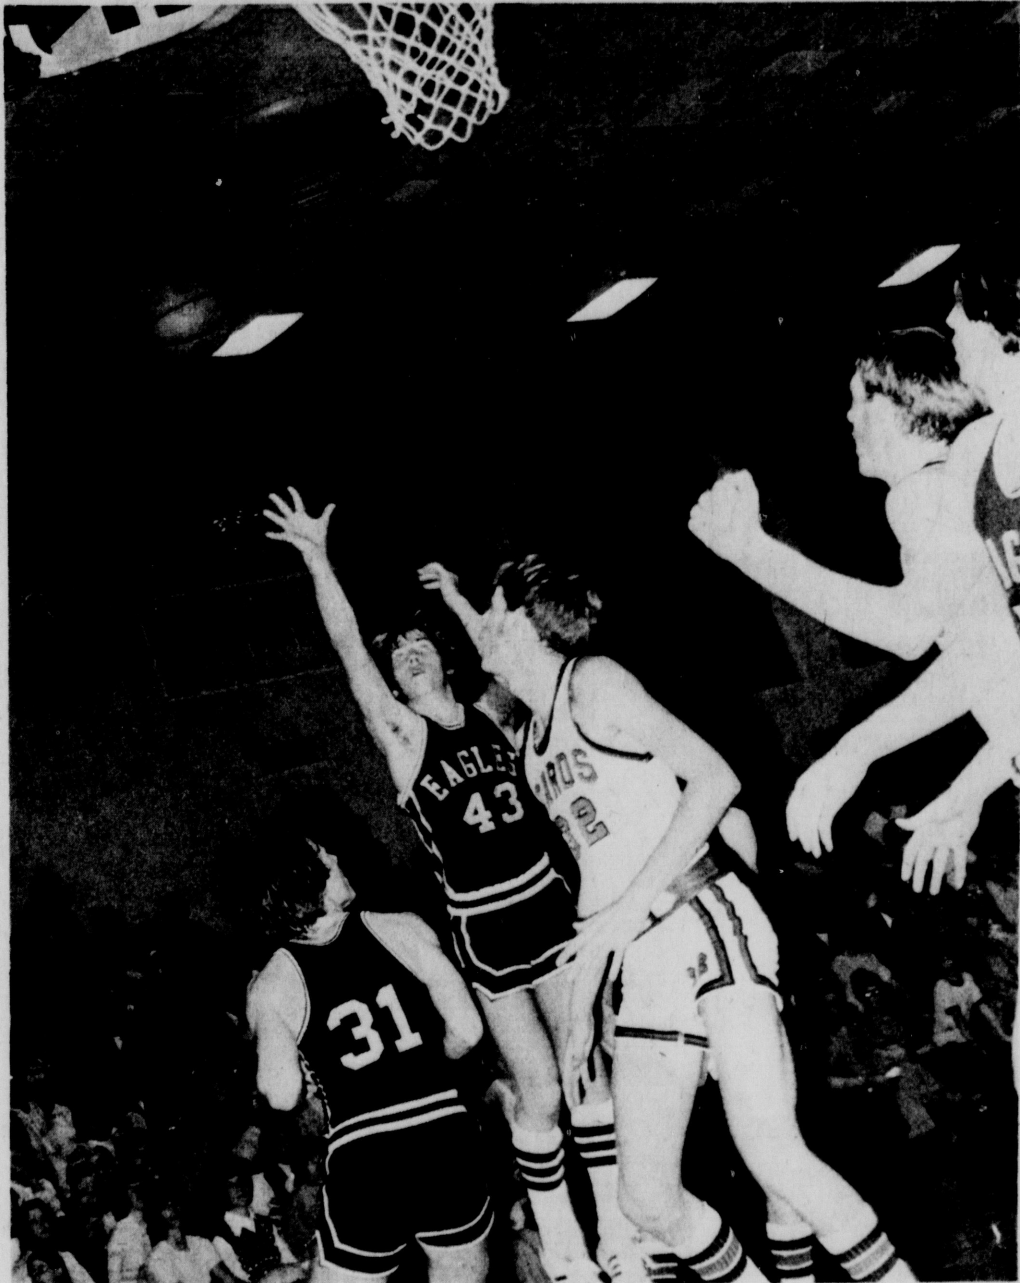

Boomer Heckman netted 12 points on the night but showed his best features underneath, grabbing big rebounds and using nice prowess and determined shooting to push through important buckets. Heckman challenged the tall Dollmeyer to stop his little lay-ups, and the Eagle forward popped through five baskets by either shooting over the 6'6" center or just moving around him for the lay-up.

Westra added five and Huber two to the cause as the complete team effort was utilized.

Clippers rally for 58-52 victory

Amboy decisions Newman

By MIKE CUNIFF
 Telegraph Sports Editor
 AMBOY — The Amboy Clippers shot 100 per cent from the floor in the fourth quarter and inched a step nearer to an unprecedented fifth consecutive Class A Regional Championship with a 58-52 victory over the Newman Comets, here, Thursday night.

Amboy will now face Shabbona, a club that the Clippers defeated 67-47 back in December as Joe Bothe collected 23 points and 11 rebounds. Greg Esgar and Randy Blackburn chipped in with a dozen markers each.

Opening 14
 For the opening 14 minutes Thursday, it appeared as though the Comets might be the Shabbona opponent as Newman raced to an early 8-1 lead and had a 26-21 advantage with 2:23 to go in the half before Amboy sank eight of the final 10 points to grab a 29-28 lead.

Bothe dropped in two free throws before Esgar put together back-to-back baskets on a lay-up (after a steal) and a spinning bank shot off a drive. Blackburn made it 29-26 with a pair of charity tosses.

Newman's Curt Repass drilled in an impossible angle shot on a turn-around jumper from the baseline over a defender to bring the Comets back to within one before the half expired. Newman had missed its previous seven attempts before the Repass basket.

At 33 and 35
 The Comets tied the game at 33 and 35 in the third frame but Powers converted a Blackburn pass for a three-point play and Bothe utilized another Blackburn assist for a short shot to retain a 40-39 advantage for the Clippers.

Esgar zeroed in a 15-footer while Scott Stephenhitch canned a 20-footer after knocking the ball away from Newman's Jim Nieman. Stephenhitch then fed Blackburn for another two-pointer as all five Amboy players got a bucket in the eight minutes.

Each of the quintet of Comets responded with a least one point each in the 11-11 stand-off. Nieman fired in a 15-footer off a drive that rimmed and went in at the buzzer after earlier hitting a 15-footer for a total of our points.

Bucket Apiece
 Repass, Mike Kapp and Brian Boesen collected a bucket apiece while Tom Warkins chipped in with a free throw. Kapp hit a fall-away jumper and Boesen a left-handed hook. Newman was frustrated by a five-of-12 shooting performance in the stanza including four consecutive shots from close range with 1:05 to go.

Jim Long, who missed the fourth attempt, was fouled on the play but then missed free throws. The Clippers wrapped it up with an 18-13 margin in the final period with a perfect six-of-six from the field.

Blackburn canned two buckets while Esgar, Powers, Bothe and Stephenhitch popped in one each. Stephenhitch, Bothe and Esgar were also flawless in two chances each from the charity stripe while Blackburn missed his only try.

Repass Swished
 Repass swished three baskets while Long (an offensive board), Nieman and Warkins got one apiece. Boesen sank a free throw as Bothe fouled out. Boesen then exited with five personals also. Stephenhitch utilized a Blackburn pass for the final Amboy basket.

Newman ended with 24 buckets in 57 attempts while the Clippers were 20 of 46. Amboy was 18 of 22 at the charity line and the Comets four of 13. Blackburn and Powers picked up four assists each. Bothe had nine rebounds including three at the scoring end. Powers added seven, two offensively. Kapp had 10 boards (four offensive) for Newman to pace the Comets to an overall 34-25 advantage. Repass added eight caroms with five on offense. Gary Croegaert, Amboy head varsity coach, alluded to the Clippers deficiency on the boards with, "Our problem area tonight was obvious to everybody — rebounding."

"Our Charts"
 "Our charts show them with a 34-25 advantage. This is the third time we've beat Newman and that is something, especially as physical as they are. They simply out-muscled our kids. But then we were getting poor position the whole first half and we were not aggressive on defense."

"We let them post on us and you don't let Newman post. They can shoot those hook shots. Boesen was hot on Bothe. He was outkicking Joe to the ball and throwing in those little hooks. At halftime, we had to make some adjustments to try to get some help with our two guards which I felt they did."

"Our defense was tough especially when we tightened up in the second half. We forced them out higher in the second half and this seemed to take its toll. They played a tremendous first half. But as far as the Amboy kids are concerned, the amazing thing is the tremendous bench help we get."

"It Seems"
 "It seems if one of our starters is having trouble or we are not matching up well, we bring a kid in off the bench and he does the job. Take Scott Stephenhitch tonight. He came in there and got two big buckets, a key steal and kept the ball alive on the boards."

"He also worked on Nieman who we feel is the key to their club. Scott helped wear him down. We kept two guards running in and out on Nieman and I feel this had an effect. Barry (Maury), our sophomore guard showed good poise."

"Steve Powers and Esgar down the stretch have been playing great basketball. They want that fifth regional title as bad as anybody I've seen. Shabbona is a vastly improved team since we played them the first time. We have to come up with a good performance if we expect to win it."

Had Better Not
 The Clippers had better not fall behind Shabbona like they did against the Comets or Amboy could be in trouble. Nieman picked up 14 points in the opening quarter with Kapp clicking on two baskets and the same number of free throws.

Warkins added two baskets, while Boesen hooked one in over Bothe and then dropped in a 20-foot bomb. Bothe had six points for the Clippers while Esgar had four and Powers three. Esgar canned a shot from the right corner and later added another from the key.

Boesen picked up consecutive baskets to open the second quarter and then came back with a third after Kapp put in an offensive rebound. Kapp drilled an 18-footer from the front and Repass a turn-around jumper to account for the Comets 26 points.

Blackburn Pass
 Powers retaliated with a Blackburn pass for a basket, Blackburn sank two free throws, Barry got free for a lay-up and Bothe dropped in a 15-footer to raise the Amboy point total to 21. Bothe ended with 16 points to lead all scorers.

The 6'5" junior center hit five buckets (11 attempts) and six-of-seven from the charity stripe for his 16 markers. Esgar was six-of-nine in field goal accuracy to finish with 14 points. Blackburn and Powers had identical stats of three baskets and four free throws each for 10.

Boesen had 13 markers while Repass and Kapp nitched a dozen assists for Newman.

Dixon girls win

By JIM SPURGEON
 Telegraph Sports Writer
 Donna Pinar scored four points in overtime to give Dixon a 44-42 victory over Ottawa in girls interscholastic basketball action Thursday night, at Lancaster Gymnasium.

The game was close all the way, with Dixon leading 11-6 after one period. Ottawa outscored Dixon 14-8 to take a 20-19 halftime lead. Both teams scored 10 points in the third quarter to set the stage for an exciting fourth quarter and overtime.

Betsy Flanagan grabbed an offensive rebound and converted a field goal to give Dixon a 31-30 lead with 7:13 left in regulation time. A free throw by Lori Heeg stretched the advantage to 32-30.

Pam Hackenberry scored for Ottawa to tie the game at 32-32, with 5:39 to go. Flanagan and Hackenberry traded baskets to knot the score at 34, before Ottawa's Jan Eyer gave the visitors a 36-34 advantage with 4:30 remaining.

Dixon assumed a 39-36 lead on an offensive rebound basket by Pinar, a bucket by Flanagan and a Heeg free throw. Eyer brought her team back within one, with :56 to go. Hackenberry fouled out :14 later and Marty Shroyer connected on the first try of a one-and-one attempt to give Dixon a 40-38 lead.

Eyer tied the game on a field goal and Dixon was unable to answer the basket, sending the game into overtime. Pinar put in an offensive board and Dixon grabbed a 42-40 advantage.

Ottawa's Phyllis Muus knotted the game, for the final time, with 1:25 to go in the extra period. Pinar tallied with :21 left to give Dixon its 44-42 lead. Eyer missed two free throws with :13 to go, and Dixon held on for the win.

Dixon threatened to pull away early, assuming a 6-0 advantage on baskets by Judy Nusbaum, Pinar and Flanagan. Hackenberry got Ottawa on the board with 4:25 left. Pinar made it 8-2, but Eyer cut the lead in half.

A Kay Schrock basket and Heeg free throw rounded out

Dixon's first-quarter scoring, while Eyer tallied again late in the frame. Ottawa applied a full-court press which was a contributing factor to Dixon's 10 second-quarter turnovers.

Ottawa dominated the game to take a 20-19 lead at half. Dixon could manage only one basket in the quarter plus six free throws, four by Heeg.

Heeg made nine out of 12 free throw attempts plus three buckets, to lead Dixon with 15 points. Pinar had 10, followed by Flanagan with eight and Schrock with seven. Eyer had 22 for Ottawa, to lead all scorers. Hackenberry added a dozen before fouling out.

High blood sugar reading should be investigated

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—I had a complete physical about three months ago when I retired. Everything was fine except the doctor told me that I had an indication of a sugar problem and gave me a five-hour glucose tolerance test. The third-hour sugar reading was 174 and he said it should be 124 or less.
I weigh 180, am 5-feet-9 and 63 years old. The doctor told me only to watch my sweets and maintain a 1500 calorie diet and have my blood checked in a year.

How serious is 174 for the third hour? Since I have now moved to Texas should I wait a year, or find another doctor now? Also, I asked the doctor if I should check my urine and he said it wouldn't show in urine tests.
DEAR READER—It is true that a reading of 174 three hours after ingesting glucose (sugar) is high. The interpretation of the results, though, must be dependent upon all the facts in the case. Were you properly prepared for the test by eating adequate amounts of carbohydrates and sweets for three days before testing? If a person avoids carbohydrates and tries to lose weight because he is going to have a checkup, he may have an abnormal test result that resembles diabetes which is a response to the diet he has been on.

Blood sugar (glucose) values vary a lot depending on the method used for the chemical analysis of the test. Certainly 174 is not in the danger range but it is far from normal.

You might have sugar in your urine because I presume your blood level may be even higher in the first hour after taking the glucose. If the level is around 170 or higher, sugar can spill into the urine. Even normal people who eat a lot of sweets may sometimes have a peak blood sugar level and some sugar in the urine. The test wouldn't tell you anything new though, as you already know you have blood sugar level in the range of 174.

I think you should make a real effort to eliminate any obesity that you have and your height and weight suggest that you could lose 20 to 25 pounds. Many people with abnormal sugar test results have normal responses after losing excess obesity.

Your high blood sugar level does increase your likelihood of having heart or vascular disease. If you smoke, stop. Eliminating excess fat will decrease your blood pressure, even if it is normal and that will help too. Any elevation of cholesterol or blood fats you might have will usually be benefited by elimination of obesity.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE G-617: Harold D., aged 35, is a newspaper advertising manager.

"Dr. Crane," he said, "I know you are a roofer for good advertising for I studied your textbook in college."

"So I wonder if you could come East to address our Advertising Club?"

"And I hope you can also expose the false notion among many Americans that advertising increases the cost of goods."

"You often state that Uncle Sam leads the world in manufacturing and our high standard of living, which you attribute to the fact Uncle Sam symbolizes the world's foremost go-getter advertising nation."

Bravo, Advertising! Jesus indulged in national advertising, for he sent 70 Disciples ahead of him, two by two, to publicize his forthcoming sermons in all the towns and cities of Judea.

Elijah also employed the dramatic flair of superb advertisers by boldly challenging wicked Queen Jezebel's 450 prophets of her idol, Baal.

King Ahab then heeded Elijah's request and nationally advertised the event!

Remember, Elijah was the most wanted man in the kingdom, whom Jezebel had instructed the army to bring before her, dead or alive!

Yet Elijah dared her priests, under her palace windows, to a life-and-death religious experiment! (1 Kings, Ch. 18)

Advertising is the sparkplug of our superb American "Free Enterprise" system, for it moves the merchandise from the factories or stores and puts it into our homes.

Without advertising (and salesmen) who of us would have a job or bring home a paycheck?

Please note our debt to advertising:

(1) Advertisements finance our newspapers, so we don't need to pay $1 per copy for them!

(2) We now enjoy free Radio and Television shows, plus sports events, because advertisers pay the costs.

(3) You housewives obtain bargains every day because of the ads in this and 1,750 other daily newspapers in the U.S.A. In fact, you save enough money during the year, due to the bargain prices in such advertised local sales, to pay your entire newspaper subscription each year, plus finance a two-week's vacation!

(4) Advertising also LOWERS the cost of goods by producing such a heavy demand, that large scale manufacturing then actually reduces the unit cost!

Oranges, for example, used to be a luxury here in America, yet oranges and orange juice are now standard menu items.

G. V. Sanders, editor of Jacksonville, Fla., launched this "Worry Clinic" down there and told me that when he was a boy, his father brought home ONE orange at Christmas.

"Dr. Crane," he added, "Dad then peeled that orange and handed out just one slice apiece to the members of our family!"

If it weren't for such large scale manufacturing that results from advertising, imagine the price of any custom built (hand job) automobile or vacuum sweeper, sewing machines or TV set!

Hen eggs are also in great demand, in contrast to duck or goose eggs, because the hen advertises her merchandise! How? By cackling!

A nation slips into "stagnation" without advertising!

Uncle Sam would grow economically anemic if advertisers and salesmen didn't keep money circulating heavily in his veins!

So be grateful, not hateful, to the real sparkplugs of our "Free Enterprise" system, for they've made us the envy of the world!
